1. For several years Rumanians have discussed the existence of partisans in the mountains, but there was never proof that this was true. Two or three years ago, in order to visit the area of the Fagaras Mountains a special permit had to be obtained from the Militia, since travel in the area was considered to be dangerous. However, there was no proof of partisan activity in the area.
2. The Rumanian Government made a film entitled "Alarm in the Mountains", the subject of which was the fight of the Frontier Guard and Militia against spies dropped from airplanes, who were aided by reactionnaires wanted by the police.
3. The resistance, so much discussed, must have been very small if not completely non-existent. The real internal resistance in Rumania is the hatred of the Rumanian people for the Communist system of life, the resistance of the peasant against collectivization of the country and the resistance of the workers against production quotas in industry.
